The package, on offer until December 20, 2018, also introduces VIP guests to a completely different side of Hong Kong – coming back down to earth on a guided walking tour of a nearby neighbourhood of timeless tradition and street-life.

Experiencing a mirror image of contemporary, cosmopolitan Hong Kong, guests venture into the Kowloon heartlands of Yau Ma Tei and Jordan as night falls to discover the city's gritty, traditional roots. On the adventure, they visit a century-old fruit market and soak in the sights and sounds of Temple Street night market. They sashay into one of the last old-school singing parlours, have their fortune told under a banyan tree, savour exotic street food and have dinner in an old style local restaurant – all the while hearing hilarious urban tales and legends.

An alternative to the walking tour is a one-hour Personal Training session with a certified fitness trainer for one or two guests at the hotel's 24-hour fitness centre.

The Olympian has set a new benchmark for bespoke luxury with just 32 deluxe residential-style rooms and suites with soaring ceilings and floor-to-ceiling windows with view of Victoria Harbour and Hong Kong's world-famous skyline. All rooms offer premium facilities from elegant walk-in showers to smart LED TV's. Sophisticated styling with an oriental touch includes peony-inspired artwork, artistic representations of "double happiness" and historical images of the neighbourhood adorning the walls. Elsewhere in the hotel, you can burn off steam in a 24-hour fitness centre or grab a bite to eat in the private lounge. When it comes to exploring for business or pleasure, complimentary Handy phones are also provided.

The hotel shot to prominence from the moment it opened in 2016, voted 'Luxury Boutique Hotel of the Year' in the Luxury Travel Guide Global Awards.
